The two-part Omnipod® System is less complicated than traditional tubed pumps.

Comparison Point	Number of Components
Omnipod	2: Pod and Personal Diabetes Manager
Multiple Daily Injections (MDI)	3 or more: Syringes, insulin bottles, meter etc.
Traditional Pumps	5 or more: Insulin pump, reservoir, tube, infusion set, infusion set insertion device, etc.

The Omnipod® System is the only insulin pump with a fully integrated Blood Glucose Meter (BGM)

Since the Omnipod® System does not require tubing, you can comfortably wear your Pod in more places.

Podders™ report improved Quality of life on the Omnipod® System compared to their experiences with other types of insulin therapy.

The Omnipod® System is the only insulin pump that you can wear in the shower or swimming without needing to disconnect.

The Omnipod® System inserts automatically and manages insulin delivery wirelessly: no infusion set required.

The Omnipod® System's hands-free auto insertion reduces insertion errors.

Insulet-provided Glooko provides on-the-go access to detailed, easy to read data patterns and reports.

The Omnipod® System is the only insulin pump cleared by the FDA for use in people with diabetes of all ages.

The Omnipod® System is accessible both as Durable Medical Equipment (DME) and through pharmacy delivery.

Compared to Multiple Daily Injections, Omnipod® requires less than half the steps necessary to deliver basal and bolus insulin doses.

The Omnipod System requires only one injection over 72 hours.

The Omnipod® System involves the lowest number of IFU steps to initiate insulin delivery compared to other tubed pumps.
